Pamplin men discuss foster kids

Members of the Pamplin Charge United Methodist Men shared attitudes of compassion and concern for Appomatox County foster children at their regular April meeting. Evergreen United Methodist Church, with the chairman, Mr. Al Taylor presiding.

At the invitation of Mr. John Ranson, vice-chairman, the foster care program was presented by representatives of the Appomattox Department of Social Services: Mrs. Virginia Babcock, director; Mrs. A. A. Fratrick, volunteer coordinator; Miss Susan Wright, foster care social worker; Miss Margaret Hunter, social worker.

At Christmas for the past few years members of the group have said to Appomattox foster children, "We love you, we care". Their generous gifts of care, concern, and financial support brightened the lives of eight foster children during the past Christmas season.

Who is a foster child? How many foster children are there? The number of foster children in the commonwealth December 1980 was 6591. Of the 6591 foster children 54% are male, 46% female; 46% black, 52% white; the average age is 11 to 15 years. The average monthly cost per child is $171.00.

The number of foster children in Virginia has reduced from 11,303 (1976) to 6591 (December, 1980). The December statistics show cities with the largest nubmer of foster children to be: Richmond, 956; Norfolk, 475; Roanoke, 316; Newport News, 271; Fairfax, 224.

Some of the primary causes for foster care placements are: Lack of appropriate parenting skills, inappropriate supervision, entrustment, child abuse, family conflict, domestic problems, alcohol related problems.

Susan Wright appealed to the men for emergency foster home placements citing the need for foster families who are willing to accept the challenge of acting as substitute parents for teenagers. Miss Wright may be contacted at the Appomattox Department of Social Services, 352-7125.

Mrs. Fratrick, the 1980 "Christmas Mother" and "Volunteer Coordinator" in discussing the distribution of 150 Christmas baskets to families in need appealed for volunteers who are interested in giving active concern to children and families who have multiproblems. Needs such as counselling, budgeting, transporting, parenting, and employment are some of the challenges presented to the volunteers.

Margaret Hunter presented discussion on the pre-hearing conference, assistance offered by the Department of Social Services to help resolve truancy problems at the middle school. Truancy, a community, school, and court related problem may result in foster child placement if the truancy pattern continues. The parents and child are subject to sentence by the juvenile court judge unless the contract of continued school attendance is upheld.

Through the shared efforts and coordinated services of the schools, the juvenile court, the Social Services Department, and other community services it is hoped that multiproblems which seem to be contributing to a general pattern of school truancy may be reduced thereby bringing to Appomattox County youth a more healthy attitude towards school attendance.

After reinforcing the appeal for emergency foster homes, the ladies were served refreshments by the Pamplin Charge United Methodist Men.
